Foreword

School Education System in India has expanded multifold during the last two decades. The system has also become more diverse and complex demanding a comprehensive and dependable data base on different aspects of the school system in order to support planning and management development policies and programmes in education.

The National University of Educational Planning and Administration (NUEPA) has been playing a pivotal role in creating comprehensive data base for planning and management of education. NUEPA has successfully designed and implemented the programme of District Information System for Education (DISE). Under this, comprehensive information on elementary education across the country is collected and processed on an annual basis. In fact, DISE provides the basis for planning and decision making for Sarva Shiksha Abhiyan (SSA), the flagship programme for Universalisation of Elementary Education (UEE) launched by the Government of India. As a sequel to this and corresponding to the launch of the Rashtriya Madhyamik Shiksha Abhiyan (RMSA) for universalizing secondary education, NUEPA conceived and established the Secondary Education Management Information System (SEMIS) at the secondary level.

The SEMIS implemented by NUEPA beginning from 2007-08 has proved to be of critical importance in implementing the nationwide programme of RMSA and giving empirical support for the programme of expansion at the secondary level. Besides national level actions, SEMIS has also facilitated improving state and district level management of secondary education. Not only that the SEMIS is considered a primary data base for planning, implementing and monitoring of various interventions under the RMSA, it has also, in a way, promoted a culture of evidence based decision making.

The present volume, Statistics on Secondary Education in India, is the first attempt to assess the status of secondary education in India (in terms of key performance indicators) based on the SEMIS data collected for years 2008-09 and 2009-10. Even though certain limitations in the coverage and quality of data remain to be addressed, I hope that the publication would be of immense help to policymakers, planners, managers and researchers engaged with the development of secondary education in India.

Preface

Keeping in view the requirements of secondary education and the reform programme initiated by the MHRD, Government of India in partnership with State Governments (viz., RMSA), the Department of Educational Planning, National University of Educational Planning and Administration (NUEPA), New Delhi had undertaken a project on “Mapping Provisions in Secondary and Higher Secondary Schools” in 2007 covering all States and Union Territories. As a part of this exercise, States and UTs were required to build and maintain a comprehensive database on secondary education, i.e., Secondary Education Management Information System (SEMIS) with disaggregated data at the state, district, block and school levels.

After the completion of this project, the Department of Educational Planning, NUEPA, New Delhi has undertaken the project on Institutionalisation of SEMIS at NUEPA, funded by Ministry of HRD, Government of India. The activities of this project started in 2009-10. Data from all recognised secondary and higher secondary schools of the country have been collected in all the states and union territories. Though the process of data collection started in 2007-08, however, a comprehensive coverage of schools was done in the year 2009-10 only.

In the year 2009-10 MHRD, GOI made NUEPA the Nodal Agency for providing necessary technical and professional support to States and Union Territories to maintain SEMIS. In order to accomplish the task of operationalising SEMIS the following activities were undertaken

- Five regional workshops were organised to orient the State/UT Resource Teams on the projection and diagnosis techniques and methodology of development of District Secondary Education Plans (Annual and Perspective).
- The SEMIS application software (www.semisonline.net) for 2009-10 was updated for data entry on the experience of constraints emerged during 2007-08
- Data entry facility was provided from the District level as well as from the School level by issuing separate User ID and Password for each District and each School in the state

Outcomes of these activities undertaken by NUEPA in 2009-10 are as follows :

- 189 officers from 34 States and UTs were provided orientation about the decentralization of planning, projection and diagnosis techniques and methodologies of development of District Secondary Education Plans
- Department of Educational Planning, NUEPA provided technical and professional support to States and UTs as and when required for maintaining the updated SEMIS database
- Department of Educational Planning, NUEPA provided professional support to the Ministry of HRD, Government of India for effective implementation, including monitoring, appraisal and evaluation of the Rashtriya Madhyamik Siksha Abhiyan programme.

Lots of activities were undertaken under this project by NUEPA in the subsequent years till 2011-12. One of the important activity proposed to be undertaken was to produce National SEMIS Report (National Level Flash Statistics) on Secondary Education in India based on SEMIS data 2009-10 of all 35 States and Union Territories.

The present document “Statistics on Secondary Education in India 2009-10” is the outcome of this activity. It is expected that data provided in this document will be of immense use not only for researchers working in the area of secondary education in the country and elsewhere but also for the educational planners and administrators managing secondary education in states and UTs at various levels.

We are thankful to the Department of School Education and Literacy, Ministry of HRD, Government of India for not only showing faith in NUEPA and giving us the responsibility of operationalising SEMIS in the country but also for providing financial support for carrying out various activities related to it.

The data provided in this document have been collected by the States and Union Territories through its own data collecting machinery. We whole heartedly acknowledge the contribution of the Directorates of Secondary/School Education of the states and union territories and RMSA State Project Offices for providing data to us for producing this document.

We are grateful to our Vice Chancellor, Prof. R. Govinda for providing us continuous encouragement and support to accomplish this task. We also acknowledge the support given by various sections of NUEPA namely Administration section and Accounts section and NUEPA Computer Centre. We also acknowledge the valuable contributions made by the SEMIS project staff without whose support this document would not have seen the light of the day. In this regard special thanks are due to Shri Jameel Ali Chishti, Consultant (IT), Ms. Lata Sharma, Project Assistant, Ms. Sushri Sangita Das, Project Assistant and Ms. Ramandeep Kaur, Project Data Entry Operator who had worked in the SEMIS project of NUEPA.

Concepts

Definitions and Technical Notes

CONCEPTS, DEFINITIONS AND TECHNICAL NOTES

1. Reference Period:

- (i) For Numerical Data, the reference date is 30.09.2009
- (ii) For Examination Results, the reference period is an academic year (i.e, 2009)

2. School Category: Secondary Education includes (i) Secondary Classes (Grades IX-X); and (ii) Hr./Sr. Secondary Classes (Grades XI-XII)

School category is determined on the basis of the highest class in a school/college. For example, if an institution has classes up to X, it may be termed as 'Secondary School', and if it has classes up to XII, it may be termed as 'Higher Secondary School' and if classes XI and XII are part of intermediate/junior/degree college, the category of the institution may be decided accordingly.

3. Institution: Institutions recognized/approved by a competent authority, i.e., Central/State Government or other authorized agencies, e.g., Boards of Secondary Education, Directorates of Education or other duly empowered authority.

Government: A Government School is one which is run by the State/UT Government or Central Government or Public Sector Undertaking or an Autonomous Organization and which is fully financed by the Government.

Local Body: A Local Body School is one which is run by a Panchayati Raj institution or a local body such as Zilla Parishad, Municipal Corporation, Municipal Committee, Notified Area Committee and Cantonment Board.

Private Aided: A Private Aided School is one which is run by an individual or a private organization and receives grant from government or local body.

Private Unaided: A Private Unaided School is one which is managed by an individual or a private organization and does not receive any grant either from the government or the local body.

4. Types of School/Institution:

Boys' School/College: Boys' school/college is one in which boys are admitted to all classes and admission of girls is restricted to some specific classes.

Girls' School/College: Girls' school/college is one in which girls are admitted to all classes and admission of boys is restricted to some specific classes.

Co-educational School/College: Co-educational school/college is one in which both boys and girls are admitted to all classes in the school.

5. Secondary Age Population:

Population of the age-group which officially corresponds to the relevant level of education, i.e. Age-group 14-15 for secondary classes (Grades IX-X) and Age-group 16-17 for higher secondary classes (Grades XI-XII).

6. Indicators of Physical Access and Facilities

Some key performance indicators related to provisions and facilities in secondary schools are given below

(i) Percentage of Schools with Type and Condition of School Buildings

The types of building include pucca, partially pucca, kuchcha and others, and the condition of school buildings includes good condition, need minor repair, need major repair, dilapidated.

$$\text{Percentage (Type of Building)} = \frac{(\text{No. of secondary / hr. secondary schools / sections having pucca / partially pucca / kuchcha / other type of building in a year})}{(\text{Total No. of secondary / hr. secondary schools / sections in that year})} \times 100$$

$$\text{Percentage (Condition of Building)} = \left(\frac{\text{No. of secondary / hr. secondary schools / sections having building in good condition / need minor repair / need major repair / dilapidated building in a year}}{\text{Total No. of secondary / hr. secondary schools / sections in that year}} \right) \times 100$$

(ii) Percentage of Schools with No. of Classrooms for grades IX and X

$$\text{Percentage} = \left(\frac{\text{No. of secondary / hr. secondary schools / sections having one / two three / four / five / six / more classrooms in a year}}{\text{Total No. of secondary / hr. secondary schools / sections in that year}} \right) \times 100$$

(iii) Percentage of Schools with No. of other rooms for grades IX and X

Other rooms include head master's room, teachers' rooms, office room, sports room, medical/sick room, laboratory rooms, library room, computer room, etc. This indicator shows the position of availability of these other rooms in secondary schools.

$$\text{Percentage} = \left(\frac{\text{No. of secondary / hr. secondary schools / sections having one / two three / four / five / six / more other rooms, i.e., other than classrooms in a year}}{\text{Total No. of secondary / hr. secondary schools / sections in that year}} \right) \times 100$$

(iv) Percentage of Schools having drinking water facility

$$\text{Percentage} = \left(\frac{\text{No. of secondary schools / sections having drinking water facility in the campus in a year}}{\text{Total No. of secondary schools / sections in that year}} \right) \times 100$$

(v) Percentage of schools having various other provisions

Secondary schools are expected to have various provisions in the school. These include the provisions like toilet for boys, girls and teachers, playground, boundary wall, hostel facility, residential quarter for teachers, office room, common room, activity room, sick room, room for sports equipment, watchman's room, telephone connection, electricity connection, science/integrated lab, library, computers, internet facility, disability friendly provision, furniture for students and teachers, basic teaching learning material, teaching learning equipment etc.

These indicators on provisions have been computed by using the same formula as given above for drinking water facility.

7. Indicators on the availability of Teachers in Schools

(i) Percentage of Teachers in Positions

(ii) Percentage of Trained Teachers

$$\text{Percentage of Trained Teachers} = \left(\frac{\text{No. of trained teachers working at secondary / hr. secondary level}}{\text{Total No. of teachers working at secondary / hr. secondary level}} \right) \times 100$$

8. Indicators related to Enrolment

(i) Percentage of Enrolment by location/management of schools

$$\text{Percentage of Enrolment} = \frac{(\text{Total enrolment in classes IX – X in government / private aided / private unaided schools})}{(\text{Total enrolment in Classes IX – X in a year})} \times 100$$

(ii) Enrolment Ratios at secondary level

Since secondary education is of two years duration, i.e. grades IX and X and the relevant age group for these grades is 14 – 15 years, the secondary level enrolment ratio can be calculated by using the following formula:

$$\text{Gross Enrolment Ratio (GER) for Secondary} = \left(\frac{\text{Total Enrolment in grades IX and X in a year}}{\text{Population of 14 – 15 years in the same year}} \right) \times 100$$

$$\text{Net Enrolment Ratio (NER) for Secondary} = \left(\frac{\text{Total No. of 14 – 15 year old children enrolled in grades IX and X in a year}}{\text{Population of 14 – 15 age group in the same year}} \right) \times 100$$

Gender-wise (i.e. for boys and girls), area-wise (for rural and urban) and social category-wise (for SC, ST) GER have been calculated by using the formula given above.

The same formula has been used to estimate the above indicators for higher secondary.

(iii) Gender Parity Index (GPI) at secondary level

Gender Parity Index (GPI) shows the participation of girls vis-à-vis boys at various levels of education, including secondary level. The gender parity index of GER and NER can be calculated by using the following formula:

$$\text{GPI (of GER at secondary level)} = \frac{\text{GER of girls at secondary level in a year}}{\text{GER of boys at secondary level in the same year}}$$

$$\text{GPI (of NER at secondary level)} = \frac{\text{NER of girls at secondary level in a year}}{\text{NER of boys at secondary level in the same year}}$$

The same formula has been used to estimate GPI at higher secondary level.

In case the calculated value of GPI is found to be 1, it shows that there are no gender disparities in enrolment at secondary level. However, lesser the calculated value of GPI, higher the gender disparity in enrolment, which shows that there is lesser participation of girls in secondary education as compared to boys.

(iv) Percentage of Girls in Secondary Enrolment

$$\text{Percentage of Girls} = \left(\frac{\text{No. of girls enrolled in grades IX and X in a year}}{\text{Total enrolment in grades IX and X in the same year}} \right) \times 100$$

The same formula has been used to estimate this indicator at higher secondary level.

(v) No. of Girls per 100 boys at secondary level

This indicator has been computed by using the following formula:

$$\text{No. of girls per 100 boys} = \left(\frac{\text{No. of girls enrolled in grades IX and X in a year}}{\text{No. of boys enrolled in grades IX and X in the same year}} \right) \times 100$$

The same formula has been used to estimate this indicator at higher secondary level.

(vi) Percentage/Share of various social groups in Secondary Enrolment

This indicator reflects the participation of various social groups (like SC, ST, etc.) in secondary education as well as the social disparities in secondary education as far their participation is concerned. This indicator has been computed by using the following formula:

$$\text{Percentage of SCs in Secondary Enrolment} = \left(\frac{\text{No. of SC children enrolled in grades IX and X in a year}}{\text{Total enrolment in grades IX and X in the same year}} \right) \times 100$$

$$\text{Percentage of STs in Secondary Enrolment} = \left(\frac{\text{No. of ST children enrolled in grades IX and X in a year}}{\text{Total enrolment in grades IX and X in the same year}} \right) \times 100$$

The same formula has been used to estimate this indicator at higher secondary level.

In case the percentage share of SC or ST enrolment is lesser than their percentage share in population, it will show disparity in enrolment at secondary level. Lesser the percentage share of these social groups in enrolment, more is the disparity.

9. Indicators of Efficiency of Secondary Education

(i) Repetition Rates

Grade-wise repetition rates for secondary grades can be computed by using the following formula;

$$\text{Repetition Rate for grade IX} = \left(\frac{\text{Repeaters in grade IX in a year}}{\text{Enrolment in grade IX in the previous year}} \right) \times 100$$

Similarly repetition rate for grade X has also been calculated.

(ii) Dropout Rates

Grade-wise dropout rates at secondary level have been calculated by using the following formula:

$$\text{Dropout Rate in grade IX} = \left(\frac{\text{No. of children dropped out in grade IX in a year}}{\text{Enrolment in grade IX in the same year}} \right) \times 100$$

Similarly drop-out rate for grade X has also been calculated.

It may be noted that lower the dropout rate, higher the efficiency of the system, and in a very efficient system the dropout rate may be zero.

10. Performance Indicators related to Learning Outcomes

In the absence of any proper quality related indicators, the examination results (i.e. pass percentage) are taken as indicators of quality, though they may be treated as crude indicators only. These are specifically taken for the grades in which public examinations are conducted, e.g. grades X and XII. So, a few performance indicators related to quality are as follows.

(i) Pass Percentage in public examinations

This indicator has been computed by using the following simple formula:

(ii) Percentage Range of Marks obtained in public Examinations

Apart from taking the pass percentage one can also take the percentage range of marks obtained by the students who appeared and passed in public examinations. This may be another indicator related to learning outcomes. This indicator has been computed by using the following formula:

$$\text{Percentage of students getting more than 60 per cent marks} = \left(\frac{\text{No. of students getting more than 60 percent marks in an examination in a year}}{\text{Total No. of students who passed the same examination in the same year}} \right) \times 100$$

This indicator has been computed for various percentage ranges of marks, e.g. for students getting more than 75 per cent or more than 80 per cent or more than 90 per cent marks in public examinations. These have also been calculated gender-wise and social category-wise.

AN OVERVIEW OF SECONDARY EDUCATION IN INDIA

SECTION

Educational Institutions

There has been considerable increase in No. of secondary and higher secondary institutions in the country. Between 1950/51 and 2009-10, the No. of secondary and higher secondary institutions increased by more than twenty-five fold, from 7416 to 189.0 thousand.

Secondary Level

As the chart 1.1 shows, as high as 74.3 per cent secondary schools are located in rural areas and only 25.7 per cent secondary schools are located in urban areas. The data show that for more than three decades, the proportion of government and government aided secondary and higher secondary schools/colleges are shrinking. The growth of privately managed secondary and higher secondary schools/colleges is faster than government schools. In 2007-08, the share of government aided secondary schools in the total institutions at secondary level was 26.11 per cent (SES, MHRD, Government of India). However in 2009-10, government secondary schools constitute 46.84 per cent, government aided secondary schools constitute 21.04 per cent and private unaided schools constitute 32.12 per cent (Chart 1.2).

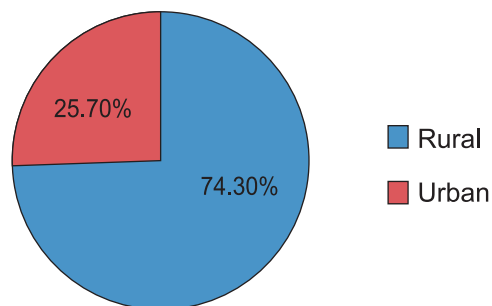

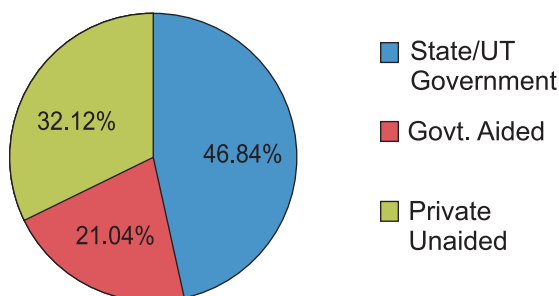

Chart 1.2: Percentage of Secondary Schools by Sources of Funding in 2009-10

Higher Secondary Level

As compared to secondary schools/sections (74.3 per cent), a relatively lesser percentage, i.e., 63.1 per cent of the total higher secondary schools/colleges are located in rural areas and 36.9 per cent are located in urban areas (Chart 1.3). In 2007-08, the share of government aided higher secondary schools/colleges in the total institutions at higher secondary level was 30.27 per cent (SES, MHRD, Government of India). Like secondary schools/sections, government higher secondary schools/colleges constitute 46.59 per cent, government aided higher secondary schools/colleges constitute 20.72 per cent and private unaided higher secondary schools/colleges constitute 32.68 per cent in 2009-10 (Chart 1.4).

Enrolment

2.1 ENROLMENT BY LOCATION AND SOURCES OF FUNDING

Secondary Level

At secondary level (classes IX-X), the enrolment of boys in classes IX-X constitute 53.4 per cent and girls 46.6 per cent of the total enrolment in 2009-10. In the rural areas, the enrolment of boys in classes IX-X constitute 53.5 per cent and girls 46.5 per cent while, in the urban areas, the enrolment of boys in classes IX-X constitute 53.2 per cent and girls 46.8 per cent of the total enrolment. It may be noted that girls constitute highest percentage of enrolment (49.0 per cent) in government schools followed by government aided schools (46.6 per cent) and private unaided schools (42.2 per cent) (Chart 2.1).

Higher Secondary Level

At higher secondary level (classes XI-XII), the enrolment of boys in classes XI-XII constitute 54.4 per cent and girls 45.6 per cent of the total enrolment in 2009-10. In the rural areas, the enrolment of boys in classes XI-XII constitute 54.7 per cent and girls 45.3 per cent; whereas in the urban areas, the enrolment of boys in classes XI-XII constitute 54.0 per cent and girls 46.0 per cent of the total enrolment. It may be noted that, girls' share is same (i.e., 46.7 per cent) in both government and government aided schools, but relatively less (42.8 per cent) in private unaided schools (Chart 2.2).

Chart 2.1: Distribution of Enrolment in Classes IX-X by Gender, Location and Sources of Funding in 2009-10 (%)

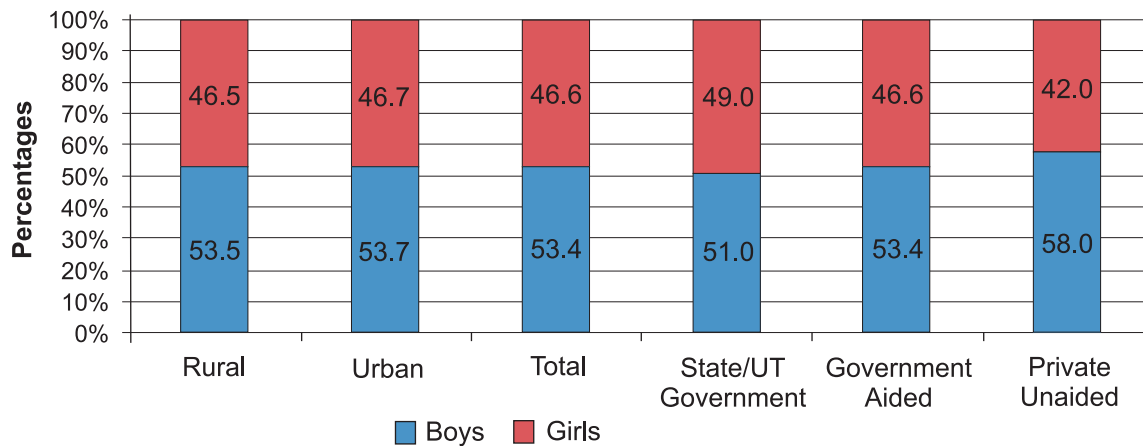

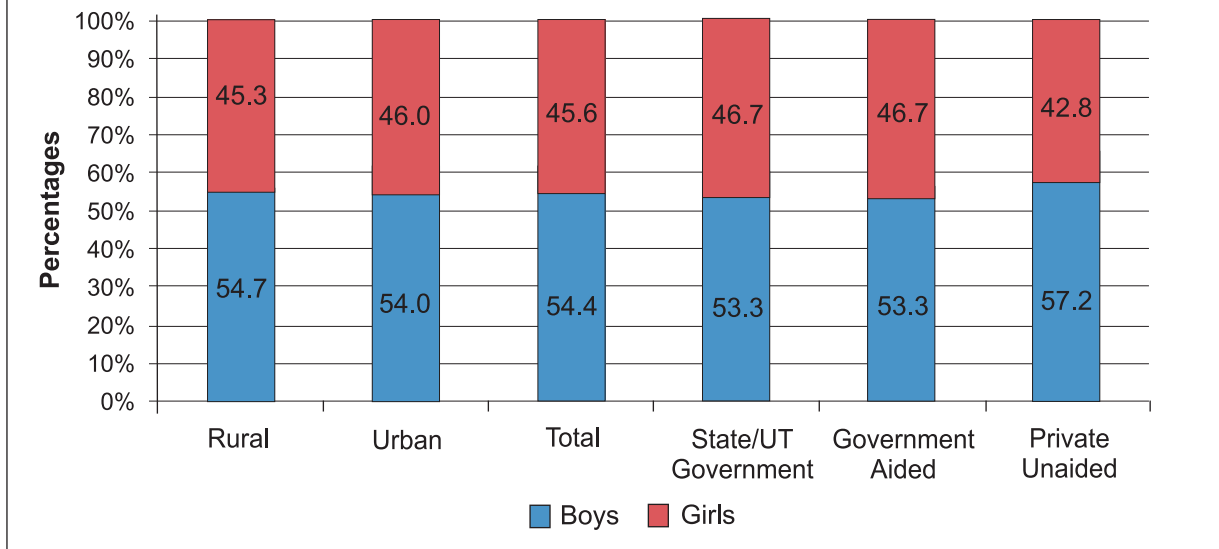

Chart 2.2: Distribution of Enrolment in Classes XI-XII by Gender, Location and Sources of Funding in 2009-10 (%)

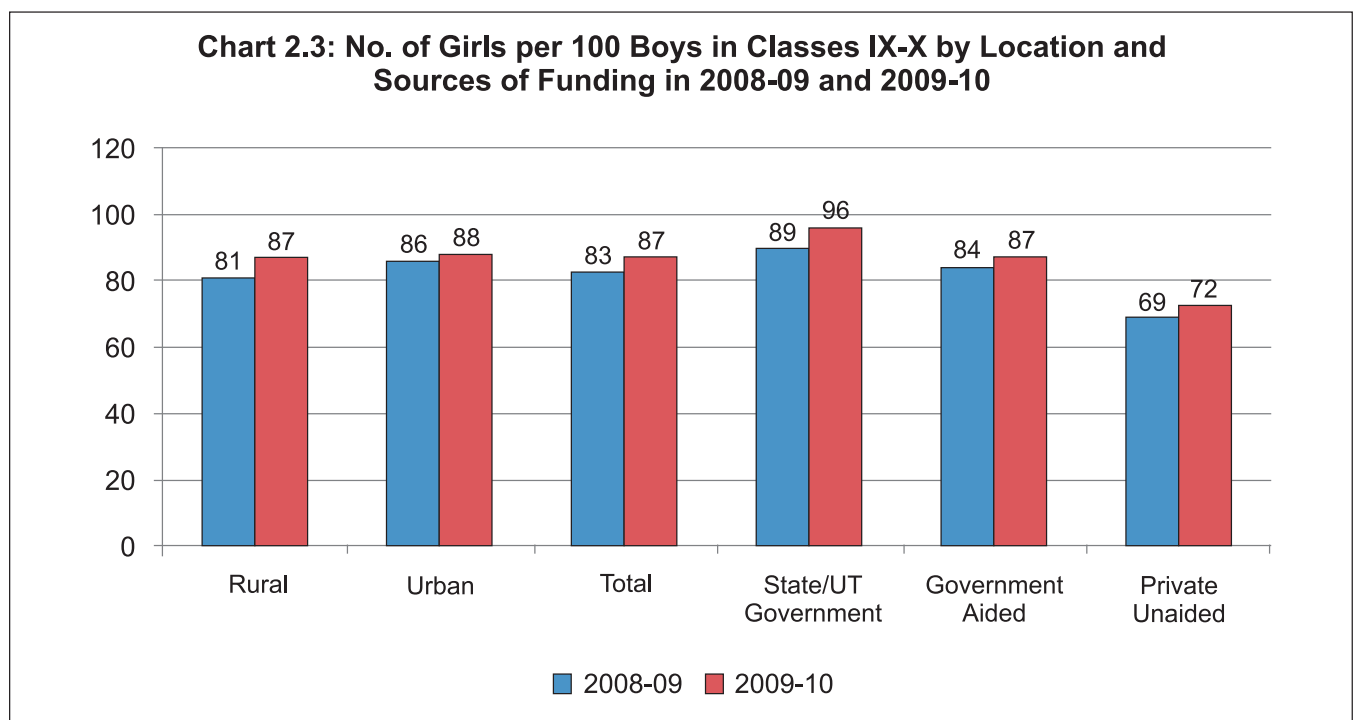

2.2 GIRLS ENROLMENT

Secondary Level

At secondary level, the enrolment of girls per 100 boys has increased from 83 to 87 between 2008-09 to 2009-10. However, the increase is more in rural areas (from 81 to 87) than in urban areas (from 86 to 88) between 2008-09 to 2009-10. The increase in the enrolment of girls per 100 boys in classes IX-X was maximum in government schools (from 89 to 96) but it has increased only marginally in government aided and private unaided secondary schools/sections between 2008-09 to 2009-10 (Chart 2.3).

Chart 2.3: No. of Girls per 100 Boys in Classes IX-X by Location and Sources of Funding in 2008-09 and 2009-10

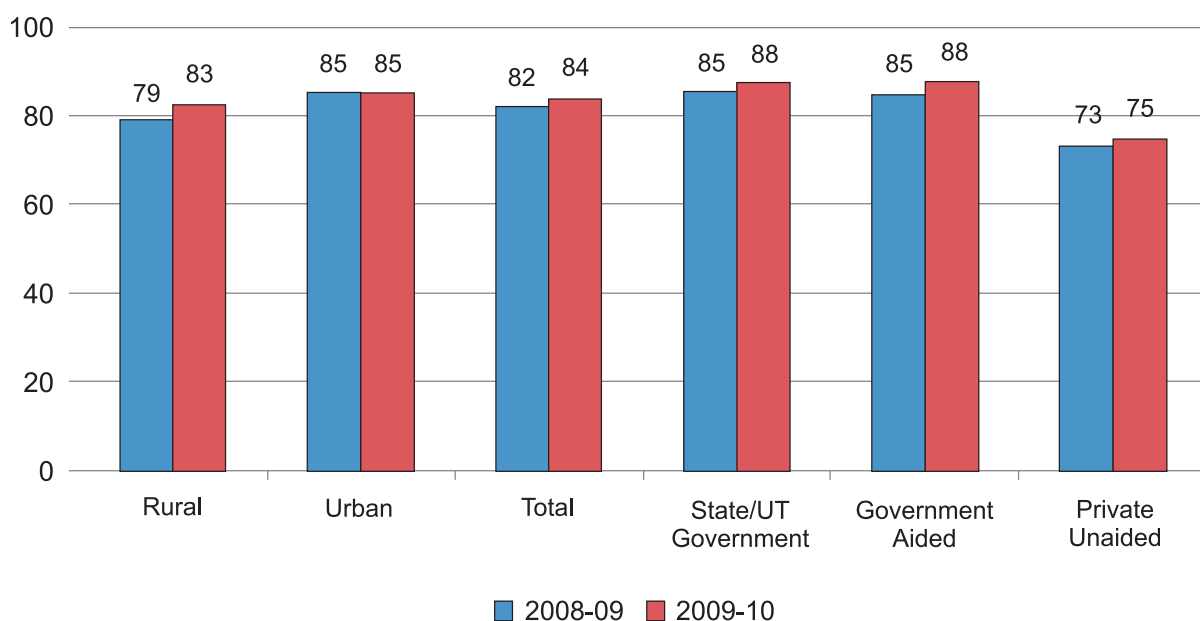

Higher Secondary Level

At higher secondary level, the enrolment of girls per 100 boys has marginally increased from 82 to 84 between 2008-09 to 2009-10 as compared to secondary level. This is because the enrolment of girls per 100 boys in classes XI-XII has increased from 79 to 83 in rural areas, but it has remained constant (85 girls per 100 boys) in urban areas between 2008-09 and 2009-10. The increase in the enrolment of girls per 100 boys in classes XI-XII has marginally increased (from 85 to 88) in both government and government aided higher secondary schools/colleges between 2008-09 to 2009-10. However, in private unaided higher secondary schools, the increase in the enrolment of girls per 100 boys in classes XI-XII is not only marginal (from 73 to 75) between 2008-09 to 2009-10 but also the girls' enrolment is very less as compared to boys, i.e., only 75 girls for 100 boys (Chart 2.4).

Chart 2.4: No. of Girls per 100 Boys in Classes XI-XII by Location and Sources of Funding in 2008-09 and 2009-10

2.3 GROSS ENROLMENT RATIO

As per the latest data available, at the all India level, the Gross Enrolment Ratio (GER), which shows total enrolment in secondary stage (Grades IX-XII) as a percentage of the total population in the relevant age-group also increased steadily from 19.3 per cent in 1990-91 to 40.0 per cent in 2009-10. It may be noted that the GER figures for secondary stage (Grades IX-X) and higher secondary (Grades XI-XII) stages were not available separately until 2004-05 making it difficult to study their growth trends.

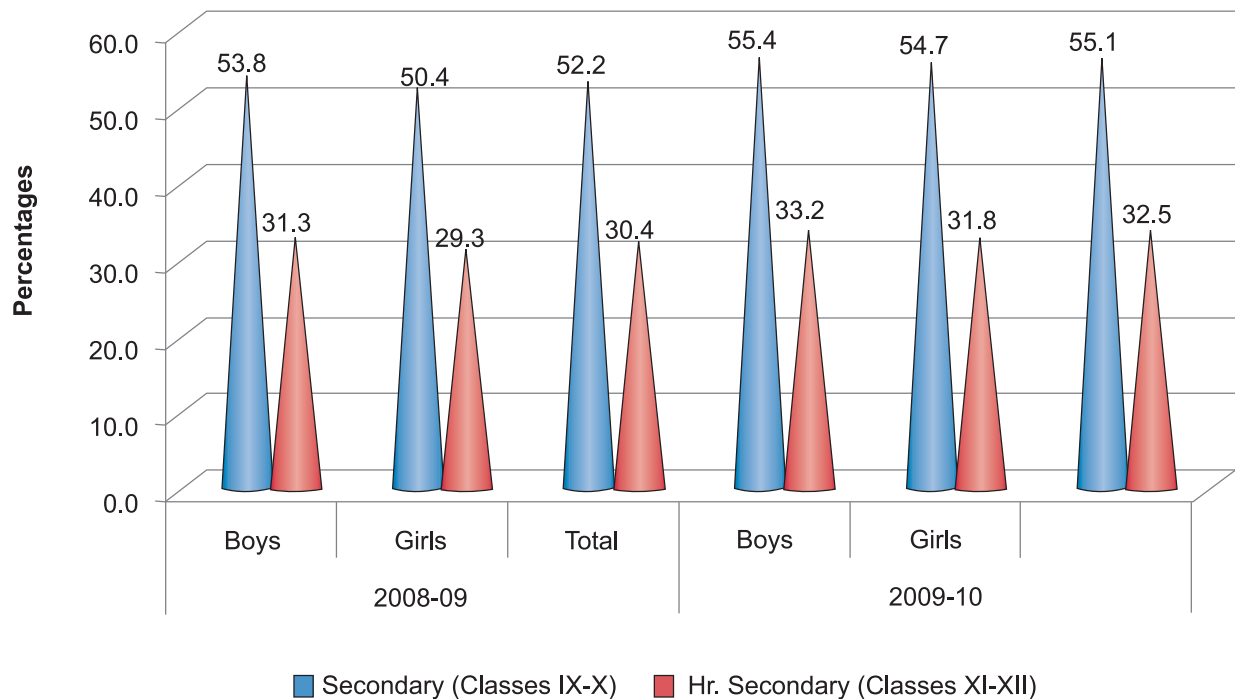

Secondary Level

In 2004-05 in India, the GER at secondary stage (Grades IX-X) was 51.65 per cent, which gradually increased to 52.2 per cent in 2008-09 (Boys 53.8 per cent and Girls 50.4 per cent) and further increased to 55.1 per cent (Boys 55.4 per cent and Girls 54.7 per cent) in 2009-10 (Chart 2.5). However, it may be noted that the increase in GER of females is more than that of males not only at the national level but also in most of the states and UTs. In 2007-08, the GER at secondary stage (Grades IX-X) was less than the national average in 15 states and union territories which has decreased to 13 states and UTs in 2009-10. Some of the major states where the GER in Grades IX-X is below the national average are Assam (48.4 per cent), Bihar (37.8 per cent), J and K (46.2 per cent), Jharkhand (44.2 per cent), Orissa (54.3 per cent), Punjab (51.6 per cent) and Uttar Pradesh (41.2 per cent) (See Table 2.34, Annexure I).

Higher Secondary Level

The GER at the higher secondary level (Grades XI-XII) was 27.82 per cent in 2004-05 in India, which increased to 33.48 per cent in 2007-08, only around a 6 percentage point improvement in its size. It decreased to 30.4 per cent (Boys 31.3 per cent and Girls 29.3 per cent) in 2008-09. However, the GER at the higher secondary stage (Grades XI-XII) increased from 30.4 per cent to 32.5 per cent (Boys 33.2 per cent and Girls 31.8 per cent) in 2009-10 (Chart 2.5). At the higher secondary stage (Grades XI-XII), the GER in 12 states and UTs was lower than that of the country average. Some of the major states where the GER in Grades XI-XII is below the national average are Assam (24.9 per cent), Gujarat (30.3 per cent), Jharkhand (27.7 per cent), M.P. (27.7 per cent), Uttar Pradesh (23.3 per cent) (See Table 2.35, Annexure I). At the higher secondary level (Grades XI-XII), the GER was 27.91 per cent for SCs and 20.33 per cent for STs in 2007-08 (Statistics on School Education, Government of India, 2007-08).

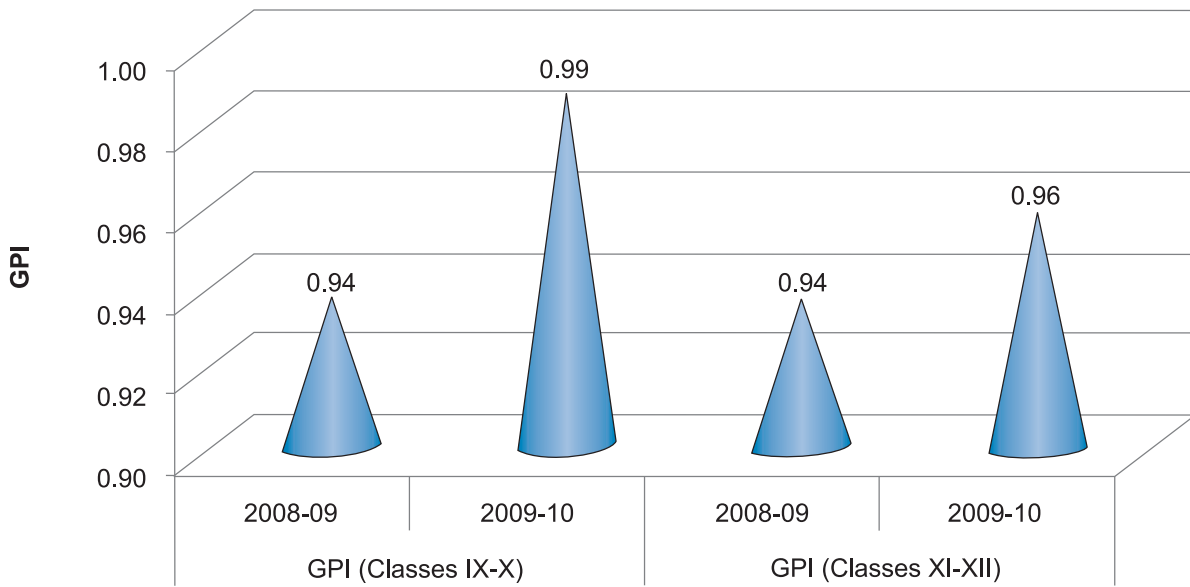

Chart 2.5: GER at Secondary and Hr. Secondary by Gender in 2008-09 and 2009-10

2.4 GENDER PARITY INDEX

Gender Parity Index (GPI) is calculated by dividing girl's GER by boy's GER of a given level of education. It measures progress towards gender equity in education. When the GPI shows a value equal to 1 at any level of education it shows that there is no gender disparity at that level and learning opportunities are utilized by girls equally to that of boys. It has been observed that Gender Parity Index in both secondary and higher secondary stages of school education have increased over the years and particularly between 2008-09 to 2009-10. It has increased from 0.94 to 0.99 at secondary level (Classes IX-X) and from 0.94 to 0.96 at higher secondary level (Classes XI-XII) between 2008-09 to 2009-10 which shows that almost gender parity has been achieved at secondary level (Chart 2.6).

Teachers

3.1 TEACHERS IN POSITION BY LOCATION AND SOURCES OF FUNDING

Secondary Level

Teacher deployment continues to be one of the major development issues in secondary education in the country. It may also be noted that identification of teachers by level of education (i.e. upper primary, secondary and higher secondary), particularly in institutions having classes I-X or I-XII and states where there is no specific teacher cadre/sanction position specifically for secondary education separately, there is a major issue in collecting data under the SEMIS. However, teachers who are engaged for more than 50 per cent of their time in teaching secondary and higher secondary classes have been considered as secondary and higher secondary level teachers respectively in SEMIS 2009-10.

According to SEMIS 2009-10, around 2.05 million teachers for classes IX-X were in position in India (see Chart 3.1a); 67 per cent of them were serving in rural areas having 68 per cent of the total enrolment in classes IX-X. The share of females in the total teachers in position was around 41 per cent; around 37 per cent in rural areas and 51 per cent in urban areas. Around 0.75 million and 0.4 million teachers were in position for classes IX-X in government and aided institutions in 2009-10 (Chart 3.1a). Out of the total teachers in position at the secondary level in 2009-10, around 37 per cent are working in government schools, 20 per cent in government aided and 44 per cent in private unaided schools. It may be mentioned that the share of government and aided institutions in the total enrolment at secondary level (classes IX-X) was around 50 per cent and 25 per cent respectively. In other words, government and aided institutions having three-fourths of the enrolment in classes IX-X had only 57 per cent of the teachers available at the secondary level (i.e. for classes IX-X) in 2009-10. It seems that teacher shortage is a major issue at the secondary level in government and aided institutions in India. Further, the share of female teachers in total teachers in position at the secondary level is relatively high in urban areas and in private un-aided institutions (See Chart 3.1b).

Chart 3.1a: Teachers in Position at the Secondary Level (Classes IX-X) by Location and Sources of Funding in India 2009-10

Higher Secondary Level

At the higher secondary level (i.e. for classes XI-XII), around 0.86 million teachers were in position in 2009-10 (see Chart 3.2a). Out of them, 49.4 per cent were placed in rural areas. The share of females in the total teachers in position in rural and urban areas was 35.6 per cent and 50.8 per cent respectively (Chart 3.2b). However, it may be noted that around 54 per cent of the total enrolment in classes XI-XII was in rural areas, which had around 59.4 per cent of teachers in position at the higher secondary level.

In 2009-10, the total number of teachers in position at the higher secondary level in government, government aided and private unaided institutions in India was around 0.32 million, 0.23 million and 0.31 million respectively (Chart 3.2a). While the share of government institutions in the total enrolment at the higher secondary level was 44.2 per cent, these institutions had only around 36.6 per cent of teachers in position for classes XI-XII in 2009-10. Similarly, the government aided institutions having 28.4 per cent of the total enrolment at the higher secondary level had only 26.9 per cent of the total teachers in position in 2009-10. Private un-aided institutions with 27.4 per cent of the total enrolment at the higher secondary level (i.e. classes Xi-XII) had 36.4 per cent of the total teachers in position in 2009-10. At the higher secondary level, the share of females in the total teachers in position was relatively more in private unaided institutions, i.e. around 46 per cent (Chart 3.2b).

3.2 TEACHERS BY TRAINING STATUS

Secondary Level

Professional training (i.e. the required pre-service training) of teachers is too an issue at secondary level of education in India. According to SEMIS 2009-10, around 82 per cent of teachers at the secondary level have professional training and there is not much difference in the professional training status of male and female teachers in rural India (Chart 3.3). Around 81 per cent of secondary level teachers in rural areas and 84 per cent in urban areas have professional training. Similarly, around 86 per cent of secondary level teachers in government institutions, 85 per cent in aided institutions and 75 per cent in unaided institutions had the required professional training in 2009-10 (Chart 3.2). Not much gender difference in professional training is seen among teachers of government, aided and unaided institutions.

Higher Secondary Level

Professional training status of teachers is relatively low at the higher secondary level. Only around 49 per cent of teachers at the higher secondary level (47 per cent in rural areas and 51 per cent in urban areas) had the acquired professional training (see Chart 3.4). Teachers at the higher secondary level in government institutions are relatively better off in terms of professional training; around 54 per cent of them had professional training in 2009-10 (Chart 3.2). In aided and unaided institutions around 45 per cent and 46 per cent of teachers at the higher secondary level were professionally trained. Relatively more male teachers at the higher secondary level had professional training in government, aided and unaided institutions in 2009-10 (Chart 3.4).

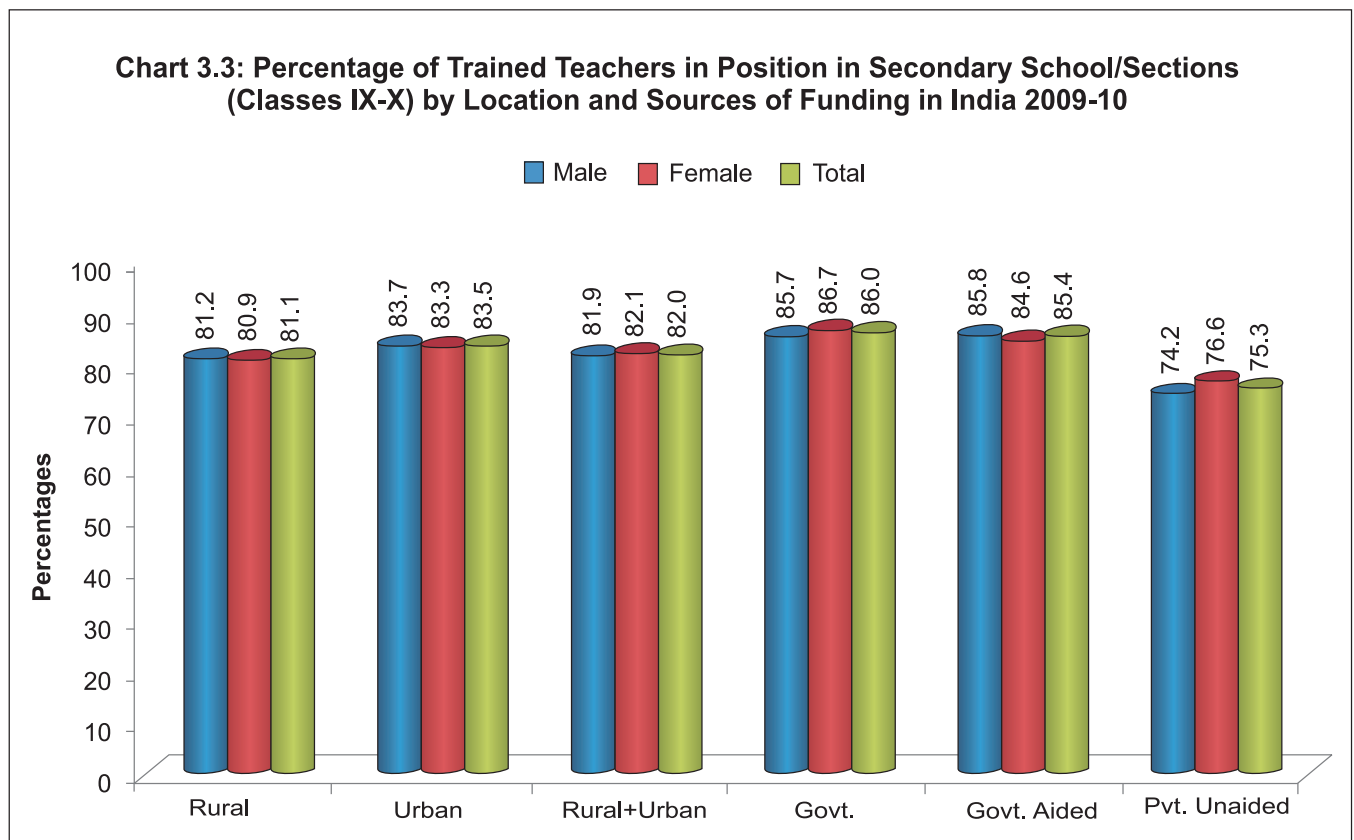

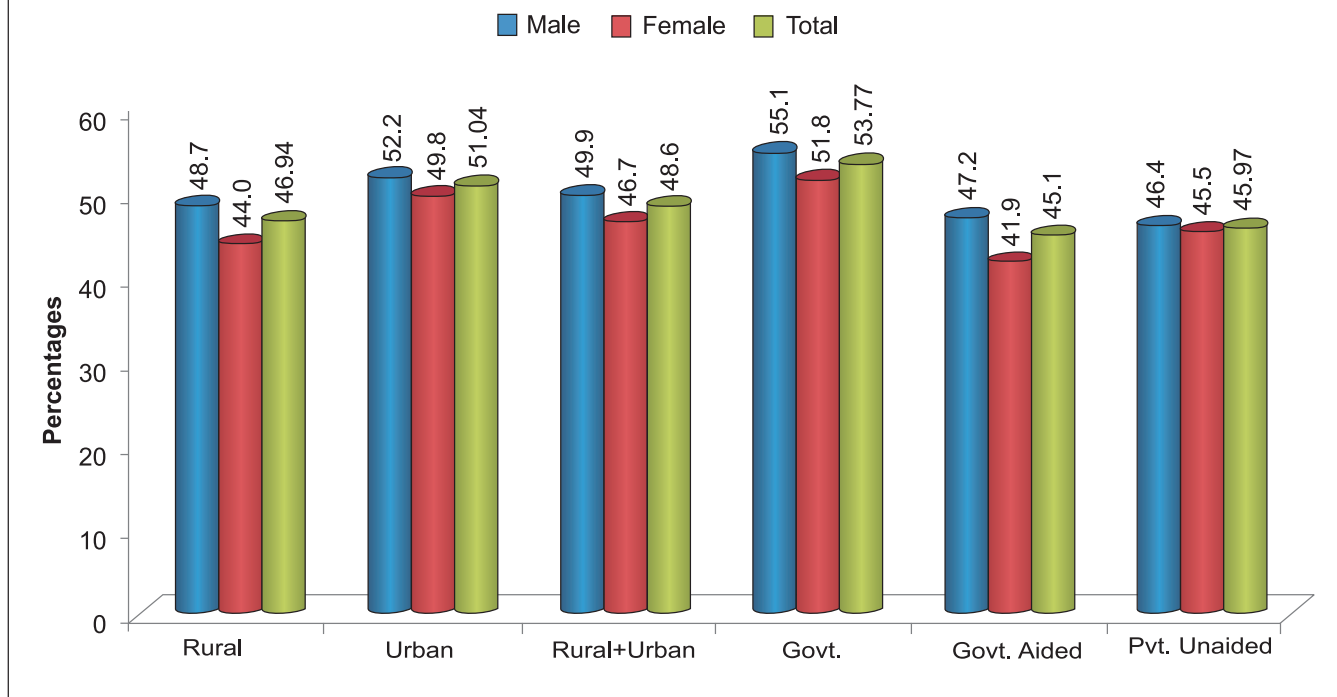

Chart 3.4: Percentage of Trained Teachers in Position in Higher Secondary School/Colleges (Classes XI-XII) by Location and Sources of Funding in India 2009-10

3.3 NO. OF FEMALE TEACHERS PER 100 MALE TEACHERS

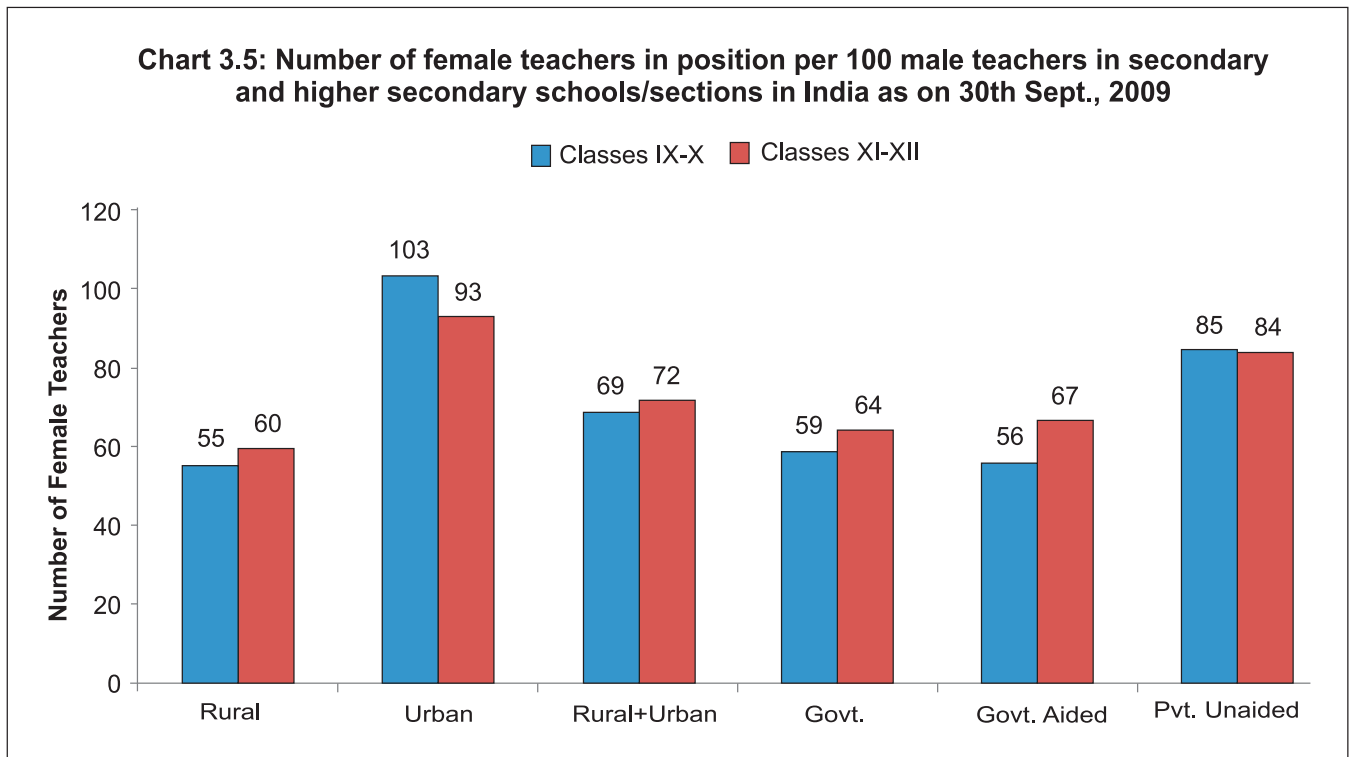

Secondary Level

So far as gender equity in the deployment of teachers is concerned, the share of female teachers in position at the secondary level is relatively low across rural schools and schools managed by both government and private bodies. In urban areas, 103 female teachers per 100 male teachers at the secondary level were in position in 2009-10 (Chart 3.5). In rural areas, only 55 female teachers per 100 male teachers were in position at the secondary level. The number of female teachers per 100 male teachers in position at the secondary level is relatively low in aided institutions, i.e. 55. In government and unaided institutions the number of female teachers per 100 male teachers in position at the secondary level was 59 and 85 respectively in 2009-10 (Chart 3.5).

Higher Secondary Level

At the higher secondary level, the No. female teachers per 100 male teachers in position were the lowest in rural areas, i.e. 60; it was as high as 93 in urban areas. However, the number of female teachers per 100 male teachers in position at the higher secondary level was 72 in India in 2009-10 (See Chart 3.5). The number of female teachers per 100 male teachers in position at the higher secondary level was highest in unaided institutions (84), followed by aided institutions (67) and government institutions (64) (Chart 3.5).

3.4 PUPIL -TEACHER RATIO

Secondary Level

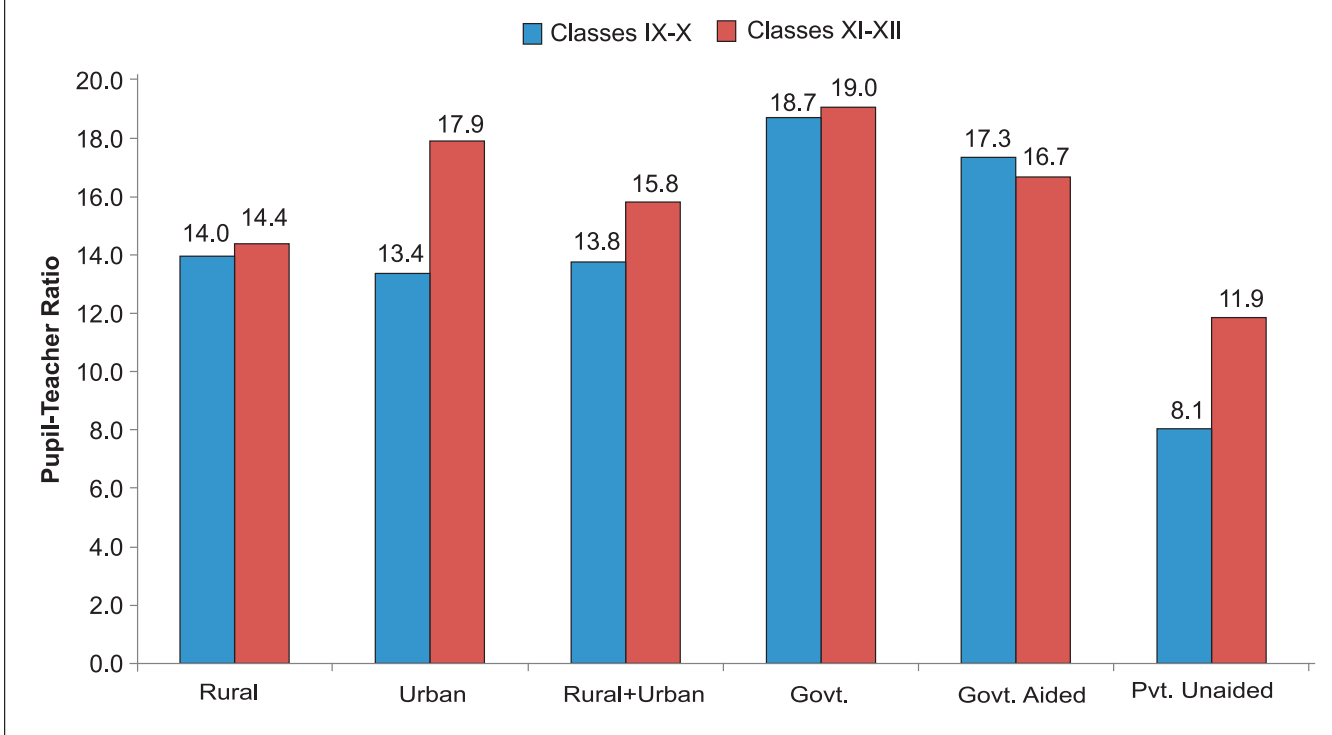

The Pupil-Teacher Ratio (PTR), although not a very good indicator for analysing the teacher deployment pattern in secondary and higher secondary education, provides some idea about the average size of the teachers in secondary and higher secondary sections by location and sources of funding. In 2009-10, the PTR at the secondary level was 14; it was 14 in rural and 13.4 in urban areas (Chart 3.6). For example, assuming that on an average a minimum of six teachers were in position for classes IX-X in rural areas, the average size of the secondary section in rural India was 84 in 2009-10. The PTR at the secondary level was most favourable in unaided institutions followed by aided and government institutions (Chart 3.6).

Higher Secondary Level

The PTR at the higher secondary level was 15.8 in India in 2009-10; it was 14.4 in rural areas and 17.9 in urban areas. The PTR at the higher secondary level was most favourable in private unaided institutions (11.9) followed by government aided (16.7) and government institutions (19.0) (Chart 3.6). However, it may be noted that with stream-wise deployment of teachers at the higher secondary level, the PTR at the aggregate level does not help to draw any definite conclusion about the pattern of teacher deployment at this level of education.

Chart 3.6: PTR in Secondary and Higher Secondary Schools/Sections in India in 2009-10

Infrastructure Facilities

4.1 SCHOOLS BY TYPE OF BUILDING

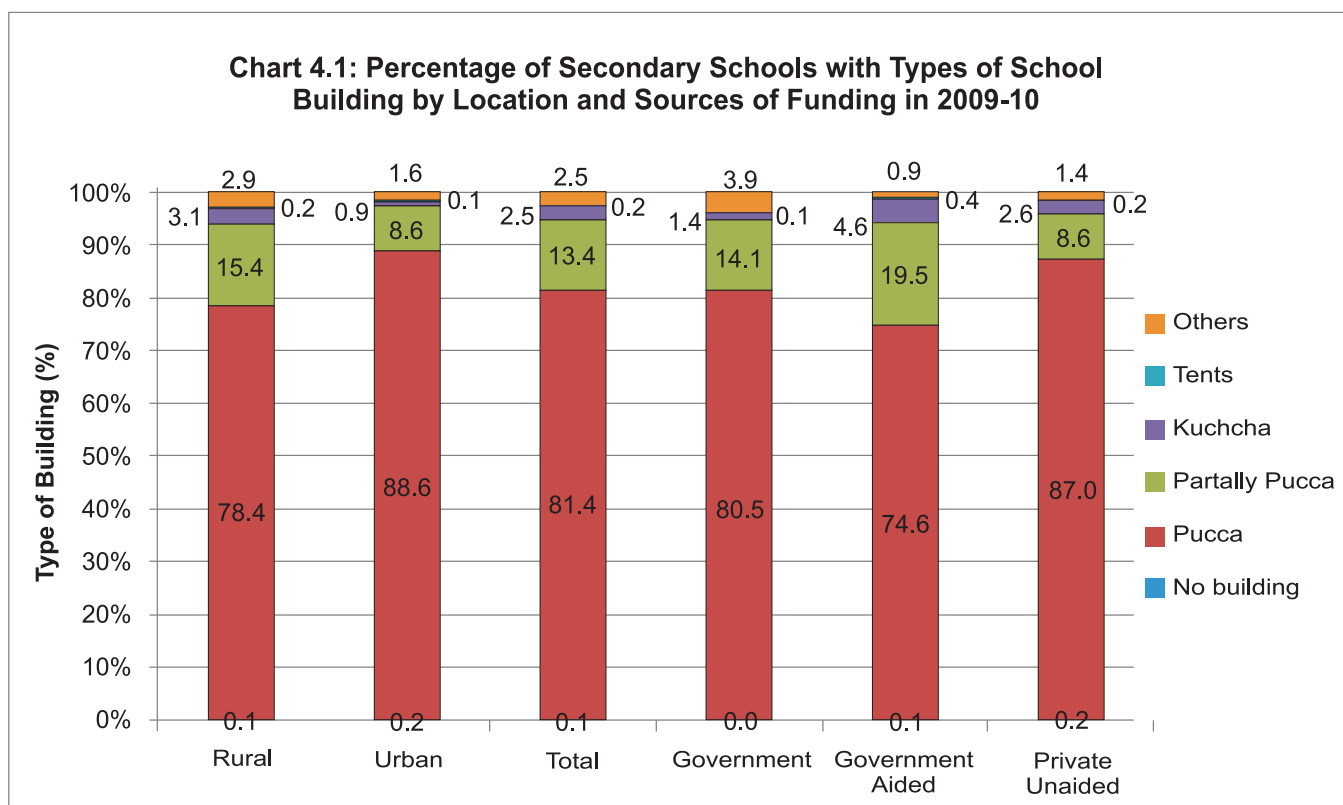

Secondary Level

A huge majority of secondary schools in India have good buildings as the data show that about 81.4 percent secondary schools have pucca building. Though this is true for both rural as well as urban areas, but the position is better in urban areas where about 88.6 percent secondary schools have pucca buildings while in rural areas only 78.4 percent secondary schools have pucca buildings. Further, about 13.4 percent secondary schools in the country have partially pucca building though there are rural urban difference in this respect also; as against 15.4 percent schools in rural areas in urban areas only 8.6 percent secondary schools have partially pucca building (Chart 4.1).

It can be noted that about 2.56 percent secondary schools in the country have kuchcha building which is about 3.1 percent in rural areas and a little less than 1 percent in urban areas. It is disappointing to note that some secondary schools (0.2 percent) in the country are running in tents while a very few secondary schools (0.1 percent) do not have buildings at all (Chart 4.1).

Chart 4.1: Percentage of Secondary Schools with Types of School Building by Location and Sources of Funding in 2009-10

As far as availability of school buildings is concerned the position is best in private unaided schools while it is worst in aided schools. The data show that about 87 percent private unaided secondary schools have pucca building while only about 80.5 percent government secondary schools and about 74.6 percent aided secondary schools have pucca buildings (Chart 4.1).

Secondary schools having partially pucca buildings are relatively highest in aided schools (about 19.5 percent) followed by government schools (about 14 percent) while such schools are lowest in private unaided sector (about 8.5 percent). Similarly, about 4.6 percent aided secondary schools have kuchcha buildings as against 2.6 percent private aided and only 1.41 percent government secondary schools coming under this category (Chart 4.1).

Higher Secondary Level

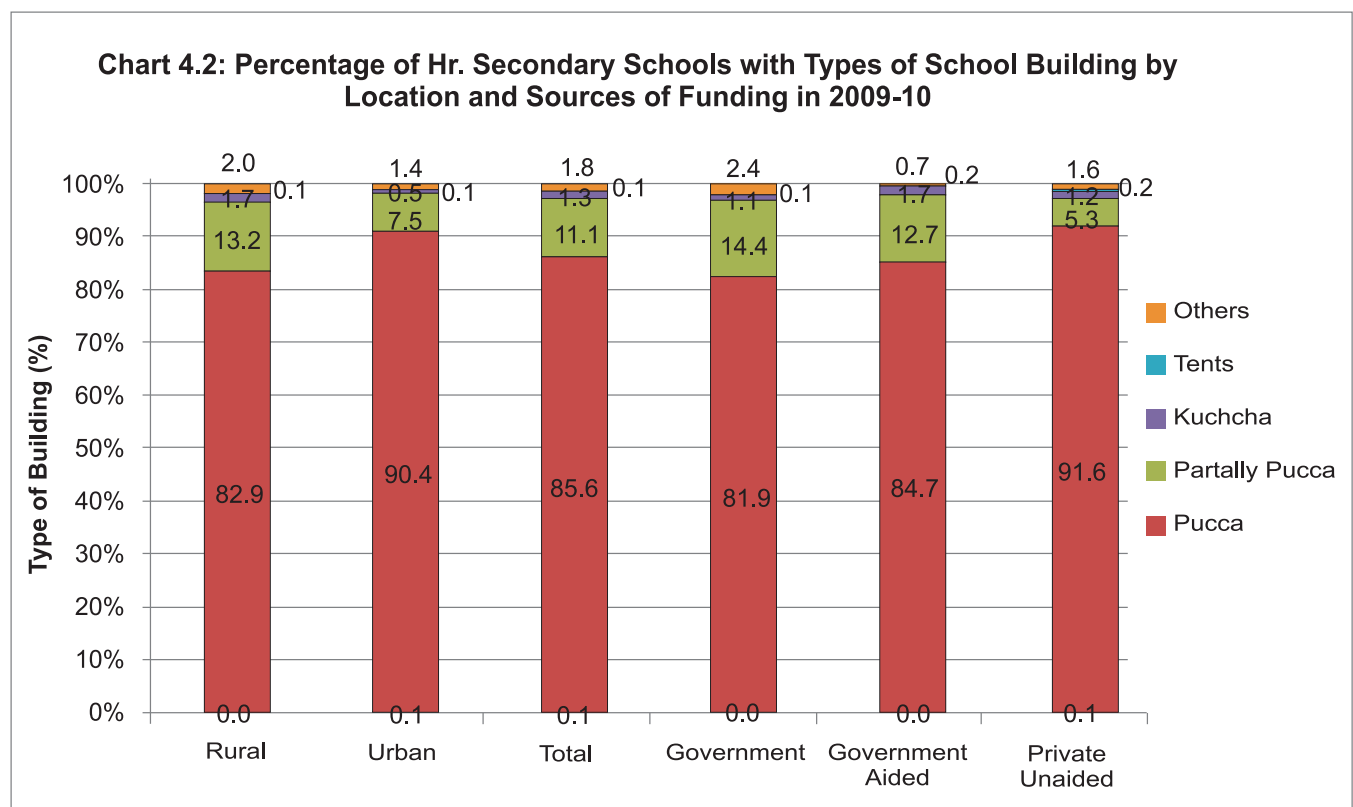

About 85.6 percent higher secondary schools in India have pucca buildings which is true for about 90.4 percent urban schools and only about 82.9 percent for rural higher secondary schools. About 13.2 percent higher secondary schools in rural areas are run in partially pucca buildings as against only 7.5 percent such schools running in urban areas. Kuchcha buildings in higher secondary schools/colleges are rarely found in the urban areas while in rural areas about 1.7 percent higher secondary schools are run in kuchcha buildings.

Almost all higher secondary schools in the country have buildings as only 0.1 percent higher secondary schools have reported that they do not have buildings at all (See Chart 4.2).

Data reveal that about 91.6 percent private unaided higher secondary schools have pucca building while only 84.7 percent aided higher secondary schools and only about 82 percent government higher secondary schools have pucca buildings. Further, about 14.4 percent government higher secondary schools and about 12.7 percent aided higher secondary schools have partially pucca building while only 5.3 percent private unaided higher secondary schools have partially pucca buildings (See Chart 4.2).

Very few higher secondary schools have kuchcha buildings as only 1.2 percent private unaided schools, 1.7 percent aided schools and only 1.1 percent government higher secondary schools have kuchcha buildings. It is very rare to find that higher secondary school in the country is either running in tents or do not have building at all and it is true for all types of higher secondary schools including government, aided and private unaided schools (Chart 4.2).

4.2 SCHOOLS BY AVAILABILITY AND CONDITION OF CLASSROOMS AND OTHER ROOMS

Secondary Level

It is expected that buildings of all secondary schools may be in good condition but the data reveal that only 72.3 percent secondary schools in the country have building in good condition. Though in urban areas about 82.6 percent secondary schools have good buildings but in rural areas only about 67.4 percent secondary schools have building in good condition. Out of total secondary schools in the country the data show that buildings of about 14.1 percent schools need major repair. Such schools needing major repair are quite high in rural areas (about 17.3 percent) and relatively low in urban areas (about 8.3 percent). Further, about 13.1 percent secondary schools need minor repair in their buildings. In rural areas about 15.3 percent school buildings need minor repair while in urban areas only 9.1 percent secondary school buildings need minor repair (Chart 4.3).

It can be inferred that in urban areas secondary schools have relatively better buildings and the condition of schools buildings is also better while in rural areas the school buildings of secondary schools are relatively in bad condition as more schools are in need of major and minor repair of their buildings and relatively lesser No. of school buildings are in good condition.

As far as the condition of secondary school buildings are concerned buildings of private unaided schools are quite well. Data reveal that buildings of about 88 percent private unaided secondary schools are in good condition while in aided schools only about 77 percent schools and in the government schools only about 57.53 percent secondary schools have buildings in good condition.

In private unaided secondary schools major and minor repairs of school buildings are required in only 6.57 percent and 5.46 percent schools respectively. However in the aided schools building of about 11.07 percent and about 11.80 percent secondary schools require major and minor repair respectively. The position is worst in the government schools as 22.15 percent government secondary school buildings need major repair while about 20.32 percent government secondary school buildings need minor repair (Chart 4.3).

It can therefore be inferred from the above discussion that in private unaided secondary schools the condition of school buildings is best while in the government secondary schools the school buildings are in worst condition whereas in aided schools it is not as bad as in government schools.

Chart 4.3: Availability and Condition of Classrooms and other Rooms by Location and Sources of Funding used for Class IX-X in 2009-10 (%)

Higher Secondary Level

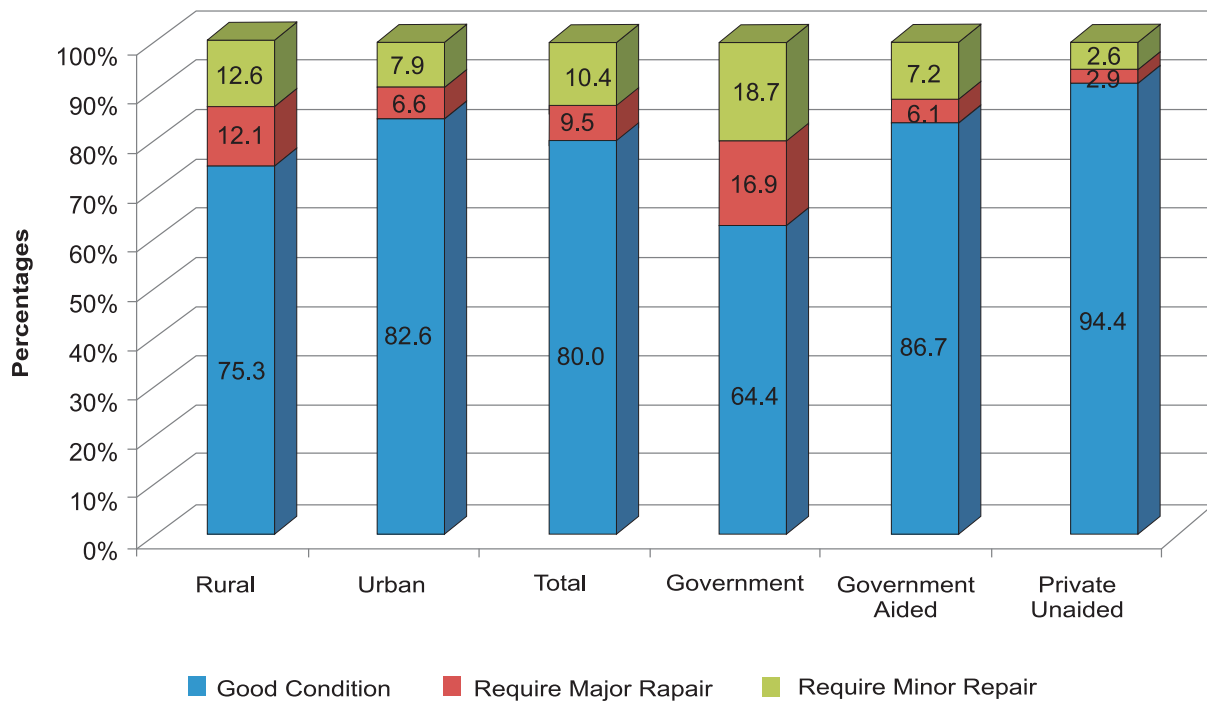

The buildings of about 80 percent higher secondary schools in the country are in good condition but in this regard there are rural urban differences. In urban areas buildings of a little more than 85 secondary schools are in good condition while in rural areas only 75 percent secondary school buildings are in good condition. Data show that buildings of about 12.1 percent higher secondary schools of rural areas need major repair and that of another 12.6 percent higher secondary schools need minor repairs. However, in urban areas buildings of only 6.6 percent and 7.9 percent higher secondary schools need major repair and minor repair respectively (Chart 4.4).

It can be noted that buildings of about 94.44 percent private unaided higher secondary schools are in good condition while the buildings of about 86.66 percent aided higher secondary schools are in good condition. However, the position is relatively bad in the government sector as buildings of only about 64.38 percent government higher secondary schools are in good condition. There are only a very few unaided higher secondary schools where buildings need major repair (2.91 percent) or minor repair (2.65 percent). But in aided schools about 6.09 percent higher secondary schools need major repair and 7.25 percent higher secondary schools need minor repair of school buildings. In the government sector buildings of about 17 percent higher secondary schools need major repair and buildings of another about 18.70 percent higher secondary schools need minor repair (Chart 4.4).

It can be inferred that among private aided schools the condition of buildings is best as only about 5.50 percent higher secondary school buildings need repair while in the aided schools the condition is also not very bad as here about 13 percent aided higher secondary schools need repair. But it is quite disappointing to note that the condition of government schools is worst as here a little more than 35 percent higher secondary school buildings need repairs (Chart 4.4).

Chart 4.4: Availability and Condition of Classrooms and other Rooms by Location and Sources of Funding used for Class XI-XII in 2009-10 (%)

4.3 SCHOOLS BY AVAILABILITY OF BASIC FACILITIES

Secondary Level

All secondary schools need to have basic facilities that include drinking water, boundary wall, playground etc. However, the data reveal that some secondary schools in the country do not have even these basic facilities. Drinking water facility is available in 91.68 percent secondary schools while boundary wall is provided in only 66.88 percent secondary schools. Playground is available in 78.63 percent secondary schools. It thereby means that more than 8 percent secondary schools do not have provision of drinking water, about one-third secondary schools do not have boundary wall and more than 20 percent secondary schools do not have playground facility.

In urban areas about 96.32 percent secondary schools have drinking water, about 83 percent secondary schools have boundary walls and about 76 percent secondary schools have playgrounds. However, the position of secondary schools located in rural areas is worse as in these areas 10 percent schools do not have drinking water facility, about 39 percent secondary schools do not have boundary walls and about 20 percent secondary schools do not have playgrounds (Chart 4.5 (i)).

Hostel facilities in the secondary schools of the country, as data shows, are rare. Boys' hostels are available in only 9.14 percent secondary schools while girls' hostels are available in only 6.76 percent secondary schools. The position in rural areas is slightly better as about 9.87 percent schools located in these areas have boys hostel and about 6.91 percent secondary schools of these areas have girls' hostel. However, in the secondary schools located in urban areas only 7 percent schools have boys' hostel and about 6.30 percent schools have girls' hostel (Chart 4.5 (i)).

Hostel facilities are relatively more in the private unaided secondary schools where about 10.64 percent schools have boys' hostel and about 8.90 percent schools have girls' hostel. As against these about 10 percent aided secondary schools have boys' hostel and about 6.30 percent aided schools have girls' hostels. Though one may expect that relatively more hostel facility will be available in government secondary schools but the reality is otherwise. Boys' hostels are available in only 7.75 percent government schools and girls' hostels are provided only in 5.5 percent government schools.

Non-availability of urinal facilities in the secondary schools is a serious concern. The data reveal that only 79.34 percent secondary schools have urinal facility, about 68 percent secondary schools have separate urinals for girls and only 7.35 percent secondary schools have separate urinal facility for physically challenged. Urinal facilities are better in the schools of urban areas as about 87 percent urban secondary schools have urinals, about 77.5 percent urban secondary schools have separate urinals for girls and about 10.2 percent urban secondary schools have separate urinals for physically challenged. However, in rural areas such facilities are available only in 76.55 percent schools (urinals), in 64.69 percent schools (separate urinals for girls) and only in 6.36 percent schools (separate urinals for physically challenged) (Chart 4.5 (i)).

Urinals facilities are relatively in more private unaided secondary schools when compared to aided schools or government schools. As against 88.56 percent private unaided schools having urinals about 88.23 percent aided schools and only about 69 percent government schools have this facility. Separate urinals for girls are provided in 81.36 percent private unaided schools and in about 78 percent aided schools while in government schools only 54.39 percent schools have this facility. Separate urinals for physically challenged are available in 12.82 percent private unaided secondary schools, in only 6.34 percent aided schools and in only 4 percent government secondary schools (See Chart 4.5 (ii)).

Electricity connection is available in only 73.25 percent secondary schools of the country which shows that more than one-fourth secondary schools do not have electricity connection. In urban areas about 87.66 percent secondary schools have this facility while in secondary schools located in rural areas only 68.28 percent secondary schools have electricity connection. In private unaided schools 77.72 percent schools and in aided schools 75.36 percent secondary schools have electricity while only 69.26 percent government secondary schools have this facility (Chart 4.5 (ii)).

Computer laboratories are available in only 26.35 percent secondary schools. It is therefore clear that about three-fourth secondary schools in the country do not have computer lab. In urban areas about 39.42 percent secondary schools and in rural areas only about 22 percent secondary schools have computer laboratories (Chart 4.5 (i)). Facility of computer lab is available in 35.48 percent of private unaided secondary schools and in about 24.30 percent aided secondary schools while this facility is provided only in about 21 percent government secondary schools (Chart 4.5 (ii)).

The secondary schools having computers may have internet connection also but data show that all the secondary schools having computer laboratories do not have necessarily internet connection also. Though 26.35 percent secondary schools have computer laboratories but only 21 percent schools have internet connection. In urban areas internet connection is available in 31.17 percent secondary schools though computer laboratories are available in 39.42 percent schools. In rural areas only 17.53 percent secondary schools have internet connection though computer laboratories are provided in about 22 percent schools (Chart 4.5 (i)). Internet facility is available in 26.43 percent private unaided schools and in 17.11 percent aided schools while this facility is available in 19.13 percent government schools. So far as this facility is concerned the government schools have performed slightly better than the aided schools (Chart 4.5 (ii)).

Higher Secondary Schools

Basic facility in schools like drinking water facility is available in more than 95 percent higher secondary schools in the country. In urban areas more than 97 percent and in rural areas more than 94 percent higher secondary schools have the provision of drinking water (Chart 4.6 (i)). Similarly this facility is available in about 98 percent private unaided and aided higher secondary schools in the country while about 92.69 percent government higher secondary schools have drinking water facility (Chart 4.6 (ii)).

Boundary wall is available in 79.32 percent and playground is available in 84.58 percent higher secondary schools in India. In urban areas a little less than 90 percent schools have boundary wall and about 83 percent schools have playground while in rural areas these figures are 73.34 percent and 85.56 percent pertaining to boundary wall and play ground respectively (Chart 4.6 (i)). In private unaided higher secondary schools about 90 percent schools have boundary wall and about 92 percent schools have play ground while in aided schools about 79.57 percent schools have boundary wall and about 90.74 schools have play grounds. The performance of government schools is relatively worse as only about 72 percent government schools have boundary wall and 76.62 percent government schools have play ground (Chart 4.6 (ii)).

Hostel facilities for boys are available in about 13 percent higher secondary schools and for girls in only 9.46 percent higher secondary schools. In this respect rural schools have slightly better performance than the urban schools as 10.38 percent and 9.37 percent urban higher secondary schools have boys' and girls' hostel respectively while in the rural areas 14.68 percent and 9.52 percent higher secondary schools have these facilities respectively (Chart 4.6 (i)). Hostel facilities for boys are better in aided schools than in the private unaided or government schools. About 14.66 percent aided schools, 13.86 percent private unaided schools and 11.87 percent government higher secondary schools have boys' hostel. However, girls' hostels have been provided in 11.77 percent private unaided schools, in 10.64 percent aided schools and in only 7.33 percent government schools (Chart 4.6 (ii)).

About 89 percent higher secondary schools have urinal facility while about 80 percent schools have separate urinal for girls and only about 14 percent higher secondary schools have separate urinals for physically challenged. These facilities are more in urban schools than the schools located in rural areas though the difference is very less. About 92.62 percent urban schools have urinals while 87.29 percent rural schools have this facility. About 82 percent schools in urban areas have separate urinals for girls while about 78.5 percent rural schools have this facility. Separate urinals for physically challenged are provided in about 18 percent urban higher secondary schools and in about 11.65 percent rural schools (Chart 4.6 (i)).

The urinal facility is found to be slightly more in private unaided schools than in the aided and government higher secondary schools. Separate urinals for girls are provided in 88.74 percent private unaided schools and in 86.74 percent in aided schools while this facility is available in only about 70 percent government schools. Separate urinals for physically challenged are available in about 21 percent private unaided schools and in about 14 percent aided schools while only 9.12 percent government schools have this facility (Chart 4.6 (ii)).

Electricity connection which is a basic facility to be provided in higher secondary schools is not available in more than 15 percent schools in the country. In urban areas about 89 percent higher secondary schools and in rural areas about 82 percent higher secondary schools have electricity connection (Chart 4.6 (i)). The performance of aided schools in this regard is slightly better as about 86.47 percent aided schools have the facility of electricity connection against about 82.81 percent private unaided and 85 percent government schools (Chart 4.6 (ii)).

In the higher secondary schools, it is desired that computers are necessarily provided but data reveal that only 53.36 percent higher secondary schools have computer laboratories in the country. The position is better in urban areas where 65.42 percent schools have computer laboratories than the rural areas where only 46.28 percent schools have this facility (Chart 4.6 (i)). More private unaided schools have computer laboratories than aided or government schools. About 60.85 percent private unaided schools have this facility while only 53.86 percent aided schools and 47.89 percent government schools have computer laboratories (Chart 4.6 (ii)).

All schools having computer laboratories are expected to have internet connection also. However, data show that though 53.36 percent higher secondary schools have computer laboratories but only 36.37 percent higher secondary schools have internet connections. In urban areas about 50 percent schools have internet connection while in rural areas only about 28.63 percent schools have this facility (Chart 4.6 (i)). About 45.34 percent private unaided schools have internet connection while 37.43 percent aided schools have this facility. As far as government schools are concerned only 29.62 percent schools have internet connection though about 48 percent government schools have computer laboratories (Chart 4.6 (ii)).

Chart 4.6 (j): Availability of Basic Facilities in Hr. Secondary Schools by Location in 2009-10 (%)

4.4 Schools by Availability of Core Facilities

Secondary Schools

In secondary schools it is almost necessary that there will be a provision of separate rooms for headmaster and assistant headmaster. But the data show that only about 70.9 percent secondary schools in the country have head master’s room while assistant headmaster’s room is available in only about 12.3 percent secondary schools. In this regard the condition in the rural areas is even worse as only about 65 percent rural secondary schools have headmaster’s room while assistant headmaster’s room is available in less than 10 percent rural secondary schools. In urban area the position is better as about 87 percent urban schools have headmaster’s room and about 22.6 percent urban secondary schools have assistant headmaster’s room (Chart 4.7).

Data on management wise secondary schools show that about 89 percent private unaided secondary schools have headmaster’s room and this facility is available in about 75 percent aided secondary schools while only about 56 percent government secondary schools have headmaster’s room. Assistant headmaster’s room is available in about 26 percent private unaided secondary schools and in only about 8 percent aided secondary schools. However, in the government secondary schools hardly 5 percent schools have the provision of assistant headmaster’s room (Chart 4.7).

Facility of auditorium is available in only 12.3 percent secondary school in India which is in 22 percent schools of urban areas and hardly 9 percent secondary schools of rural areas. This facility is best available in private aided schools where about 22.5 percent secondary schools have auditorium as against only about 12.8 percent aided secondary schools and as low as only about 5 percent government secondary schools that have this facility (Chart 4.7).

The provision of girls’ and Boys’ common rooms is available in 16 percent and 12.3 percent secondary schools in the country respectively. In urban areas this provision is available in relatively more secondary schools as about 23 percent schools have girls’ common room and about 18.8 percent schools have boys’ common while in the rural areas the respective figures are 13.6 percent and 10.1 percent only. Further, in private unaided secondary schools girls’ common is available in about 27.5 percent schools and boys’ common in about 23.8 percent schools. In aided secondary schools about 14.1 percent schools have girls’ common room and 9.2 percent schools have boys’ common room. The facility of girls and boys common room is most uncommon in the government secondary schools as only 9.1 percent and 5.9 percent government secondary schools have girls' and boys' common rooms respectively (Chart 4.7).

Separate staff room for females is available in 19.4 percent secondary schools in the country which is provided in about 33 percent urban schools and only about 14.6 percent rural secondary schools. The provision of female teachers' staff room is available in about 32.8 percent private unaided secondary schools while in only 19 percent aided secondary schools this facility is available. However, the provision of female teachers' staff room is available in only about 10 percent government secondary schools (Chart 4.7).

Having school library and laboratory is mandatory for all the secondary schools but data show that only about 40 percent secondary schools have library and only about 38 percent secondary schools have laboratory in the country. In urban areas these facilities are better and about 62 percent urban secondary schools have library while about 56 percent urban secondary schools have laboratory. However, in rural areas only 32 percent secondary schools have library and 31.8 percent secondary schools have laboratory. Among the private unaided secondary schools about 66.5 percent schools have library and about 54.8 percent schools have laboratory. The respective figures for aided secondary schools are 41.4 percent and 47.6 percent. However government schools are most ill equipped in this regard as only 20.6 percent government secondary schools have library and only 22.34 percent government secondary schools have laboratory (Chart 4.7).

The analysis presented above on the availability of core facilities in secondary schools show that urban secondary schools have been provided with better facilities than the schools located in rural areas. Further, private unaided secondary schools are far better equipped than aided schools while the government secondary schools are most ill equipped in terms of core facilities in the schools (Chart 4.7).

Higher Secondary Schools

The higher secondary schools must have head masters room and also should have separate room for the assistant headmaster. Data show that 84 percent higher secondary school have headmaster's room and only about 26 percent higher secondary schools have separate room for the assistant headmaster in the country. However, in schools located in urban areas about 93 percent have headmaster's room and about 37 percent schools have assistant headmaster's room whereas in the schools located in rural areas the respective figures are about 79 percent and 20 percent respectively. This shows that the facilities of such separate rooms for headmaster and assistant headmaster are lacking in rural areas though in urban areas the position is relatively better (Chart 4.8).

With regard to the availability of room for headmaster and assistant headmaster the data reveal that private unaided higher secondary schools are quite well as in these schools about 95 percent schools have headmaster's and about 42 percent schools have assistant headmaster's room while the position is relatively less comfortable in aided schools where about 91 percent schools have headmaster's room and about 27 percent schools have assistant head master's room. The performance of government schools is worst as here only about 73.5 percent higher secondary schools have head master's room and hardly 15 percent government higher secondary schools have assistant head master's room (Chart 4.8).

About 23 percent higher secondary schools of the country have auditorium but there is huge gap between the rural and urban schools in this regard as only about 16.7 percent higher secondary schools located in rural areas have this facility against about 33.5 percent higher secondary schools located in the urban areas. Further the facility of auditorium is relatively better in private unaided schools (35 percent schools have this facility) as compared to the aided higher secondary schools (28 percent) while the government higher secondary schools (12.3 percent) are worst performing in this regard (Chart 4.8).

Girls' and boys' common room are available in only 28.7 percent and about 21 percent higher secondary schools respectively in the country. In the schools of urban areas these facilities are provided in more schools as compared to the rural higher secondary schools. Girls' common are available in 33.6 percent urban higher secondary schools while in only about 26 percent rural higher secondary schools. Similarly boys' common rooms are provided in about 25 percent higher secondary schools located in urban areas against only about 18.4 percent higher secondary schools located in rural areas (Chart 4.8).

The common room facilities are relatively better in private unaided higher secondary schools than the aided schools. Girls' common room is available in 44 percent private unaided higher secondary schools while it is available only in about 34.5 percent aided higher secondary schools but in government higher secondary schools it is available only in about 15.5 percent schools. Similarly, boys' common room is available in 35 percent private unaided and about 23 percent aided higher secondary schools while in government higher secondary schools this facility is available only in 10 percent schools. (Chart 4.8).

Separate staff room for female teachers has been provided in about 35 percent higher secondary schools in the country. However, in urban areas this facility is available in about 46 percent higher secondary schools while only in about 29 percent schools in rural areas. In the private unaided higher secondary schools female teachers' staff room is available in about 48 percent schools while in aided schools this provision is available only in 42.4 schools. In the government higher secondary schools this facility is provided only in 23 percent schools (Chart 4.8).

Chart 4.8: Percentages of Hr. Secondary Schools having Separate Rooms for Staff, Students and other Activities by Location and Sources of Funding in 2009-10

It is disappointing to note that only about 66 percent higher secondary schools in the country have library and only 67 percent schools have laboratory. The position of such provisions in rural schools are even worse as only about 58 percent rural higher secondary schools have library and only about 60.5 percent higher secondary schools located in rural areas have laboratory. In urban areas about 80 percent higher secondary schools have library while about 78 percent urban higher secondary schools have laboratory (Chart 4.8).

Among the private unaided higher secondary schools library and laboratory is available in about 83.7 percent and 77.6 percent schools respectively. In the aided schools library is provided in 75.5 percent higher secondary schools and laboratory in 76 percent higher secondary schools. Provision of library and laboratory in government schools is quite bad as only about 49.3 percent government higher secondary schools have library and only about 56 percent of government higher secondary schools have laboratory. This clearly shows that more than half of the government higher secondary schools do not have library and more than 40 percent government higher secondary schools do not have laboratory (Chart 4.8).

Examination Results

5.1 RESULTS OF CLASS X BOARD EXAMINATIONS BY LOCATION, GENDER AND SOCIAL CATEGORY

Examination results (e.g. pass percentage) can be considered as an indicator of the quality of education imparted in the schools. However, results of the public/board examination are relatively more reliable than the results of home examinations. Data under SEMIS have been collected about the pass percentage of the class X and XII board examinations. These data reveal that in 2009 class X board examinations 73.8 percent students passed in the country. The performance of girls was slightly better than that of boys as the pass percentage of boys was 73 while 74.8 percent girls passed the examination. It has also been found that the result is better in the schools of urban areas than the schools located in rural areas. About 77.7 percent children passed in the schools of urban areas against only 71.9 percent pass percentage in rural areas. It is interesting to note that in both rural areas as well as in urban areas the performance of girls is better than that of boys (Chart 5.1).

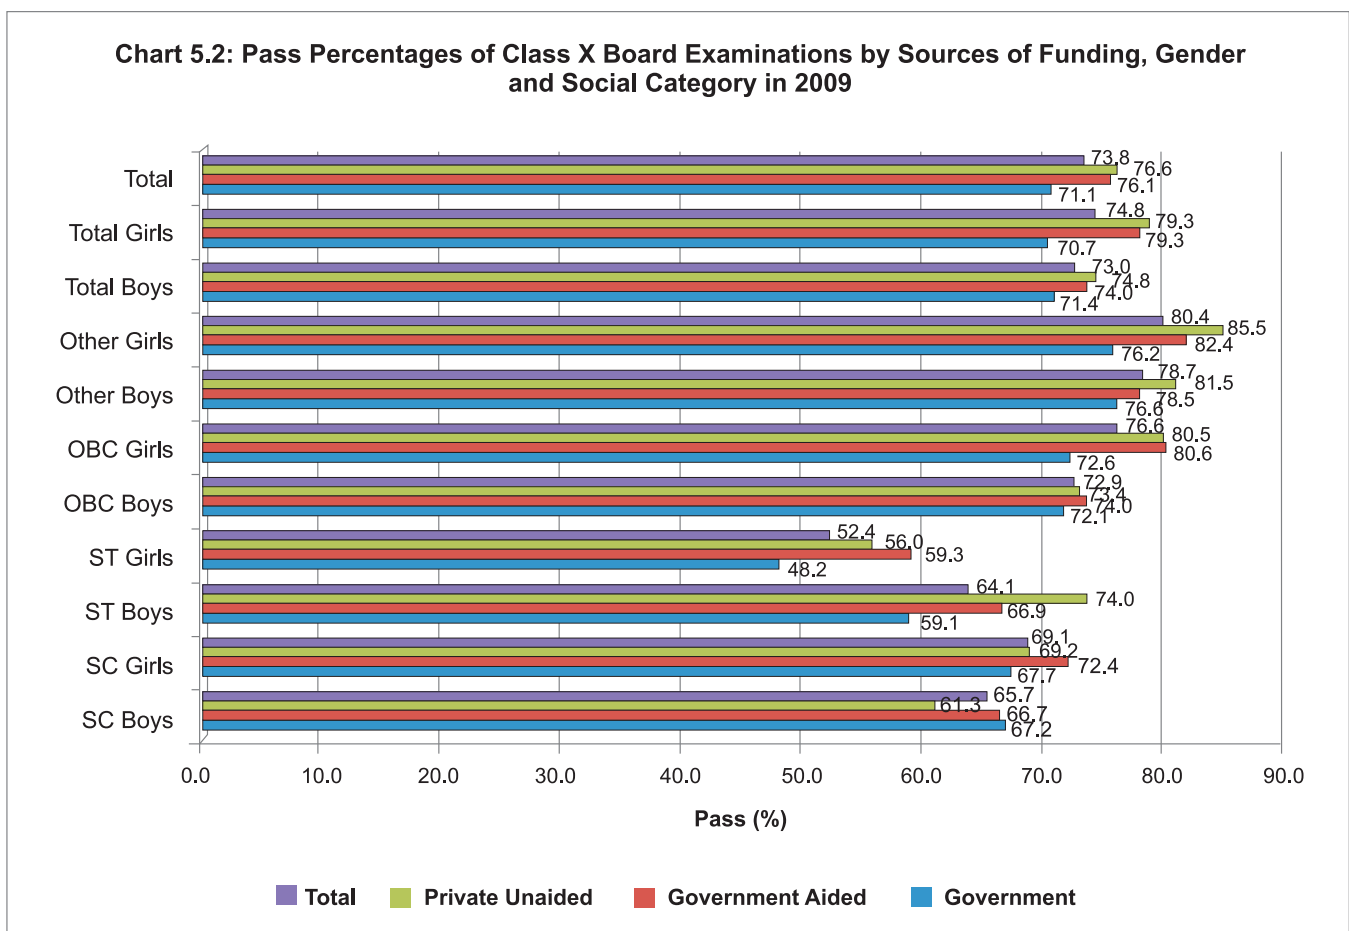

Chart 5.1: Pass Percentages of Class X Board Examinations by Location, Gender and Social Category in 2009

It is generally perceived that the private unaided schools perform better than the aided and government schools. Though data supports this perception but the difference between aided and unaided schools is negligible. In the private unaided schools 76.6 per cent children passed class X board examination while in the aided schools the pass percentage was only a little less i.e. 76.1 per cent. In private unaided as well as aided schools the performance of girls was found to be better than boys. Pass percentage of boys was 74.8 in unaided schools and 74 per cent in aided schools while pass percentage girls was 79.3 in unaided schools and 78.5 per cent in aided schools. The performance of government schools was though worse than unaided as well as aided schools but it has been found that overall the performance of government schools was not bad. About 71.1 per cent children from government schools passed the class X examination against 76.6 percent from unaided and 76.1 percent from aided schools. However, in case of government schools there was not much difference between boys' and girls' pass percentage and here the pass percentage of boys (71.4 per cent) was slightly better than that of girls (70.7 per cent). It can therefore be seen that unlike private unaided and aided schools where girls' performance in board examination is better than boys in government schools boys have performed marginally better than girls (Chart 5.1).

Chart 5.2: Pass Percentages of Class X Board Examinations by Sources of Funding, Gender and Social Category in 2009

5.2 RESULTS OF CLASS XII BOARD EXAMINATIONS BY SOURCES OF FUNDING, GENDER AND SOCIAL CATEGORY

In the class XII board examinations in 2009 over all pass percentage in the country was 79.8 and the performance of girls was better than boys as 82.4 percent girls passed the examination against only 77.7 percent boys. Though there is difference between the pass percentage of students of rural and urban areas but the difference is marginal as the pass percentage in the class XII board examination was 80.3 in urban areas and 79.4 in rural areas. In both urban as well rural areas the performance of girls was slightly better than that of boys though the difference was more in rural areas than in urban areas. In rural areas boys' and girls' pass percentages were 77.1 and 82.3 respectively which shows a difference of 5.2 percent points (See Chart 5.3).

However, in urban areas pass percentage of boys and girls was 78.5 and 82.4 respectively which shows a difference of 3.9 percent points (Chart 5.3).

In the private unaided schools 82.6 percent children passed class XII examination in the country in 2009 while in aided schools 81 percent children passed. But the performance of girls was better than that of boys in both unaided as well aided schools. In the aided schools girls' pass percentage was 84.3 against that of boys (78.2) while in unaided schools pass percentage of girls was 85.6 and that of boys 80.4. It is therefore clear that gender differences in performance in class XII board examination are more in aided schools than the unaided schools. The performance of government schools in class XII board examination was worse than the unaided and aided schools. In the government schools pass percentage was 77.2 against 82.6 in unaided and 81 in aided schools. In the government schools also girls' performance was better than the boys as the pass percentages of boys and girls were 75.5 and 79.1 respectively (Chart 5.4).

It can be concluded that in the class X and XII board examinations the performance of girls has been better than the boys and the performance of schools located in urban areas is better than the schools located in rural areas. Further, performance of private unaided schools was better than the aided schools and government schools while performance of aided schools was better than the government schools. Overall the performance of children in class XII examination was found to be better than performance of children in class X examinations (Chart 5.3).
